

Mr. President and Gentlemen, wish you a Good day

I am a journalist and minority rights activist from Yazidis people in Iraq. I spoke to you a year ago, as well as two years ago, but unfortunately the call of my people has not been answered and 70 percent still in the camps.

The children and women prisoners by "Daesh" are still unaccounted for and were not found during the liberation of Mosul, this is what causes us to worry we may lose them completely after two and a half years. Not to mention the transformation of our liberated areas into ruins and into an arena of political conflicts aimed at our identity and change our culture

I would like to ask you, Mr. President, and the representatives of the States, why do not these meetings affect our reality?

I am addressing you and I realize that the Yazidis crisis is not the only one in the world, but the ugliest fact that "Daesh" Organization has targeted the existence of the Yezidi component. And Daesh is not the only responsible for our annihilation. But the Kurdish Peshmerga forces bore the brunt of responsibility when they prevent Yazidis from leaving Sinjar weeks before the genocide. On August 3, 2014, they did not fight "Daesh" and withdrew in large numbers without warning. And your countries also bear responsibility, hundreds of European nationality, Asian and American citizens Joined Daesh and participated in the killing and sale of Yazidis

So it is your responsibility to support Yazidi's demand to investigate crimes and to bring the perpetrators to justice, to provide justice to the victims and to provide a safe area for their future safety.

A few minutes ago you heard Farhad's 14-year-old testimony. He and 65 members of his clan were kidnapped. His mother and sisters were sold in front of his eyes and today he is waiting for two sisters. His mother was enslaved and she was forced to serve families of "Daesh" as a slave

His testimony was not well understood because he learned the Arabic language in camps of "Daesh" in Syria. He and hundreds of Yazidi children aged 7 and 8 were forced to learn Islamic law, watch headscarves, swallow Pills , carry weapons and duel his brother

In front of his eyes, the hands and fingers of some of the children were disobeyed for disobedience, and some of them were deprived of food for a whole day, and children who were learning slowly were punished, kicking their bellies and walking above their backs. We have information that out of 911 a Yazidi kid who were kidnapped by Daesh, at least 200 Yezidi children have been brain washed. In July of this year, they entered the stage of learning to drive cars to carry out suicide missions.

Today Farhad among us, but you have to know that his friends are now in camps ready to drive car bombs and carry explosive belts to blow themselves up between us.

This comes as a result of the failure of the governments of Iraq and the Kurdistan region and the failure of the international community and the United Nations in seeking to save the children of Yazidis and thousands of other children, from the crime and takfiri Ideas of deash, after the have been neglected for more than two years .

In the End, I make another appeal to the Kurdistan Regional Government to release the Yezidi survivor Basima Darwish, who fled from Daesh and now detained in the prisons of the region two years ago, she and her infant daughter.
