

The world is a beautiful butterfly with many colors embossed on its wings, and these colors are the tribes that inhabit the earth.

The enemies of arrogance and colonialism do not give up any action to achieve their sinister aims and the way to reach their ideal world is to destroy the independence and identity of the people who they want to rule them therefore, they smooth their way by creating division, hatred, ethnicity, war, etcetera.

They are well aware that a peaceful atmosphere in society can reduce violence and promise a happier life. As a result, they prevent such good atmosphere by creating violence and ethnic divisions and spreading hatred among the societies.

With the help of cyberspace and at the lowest cost, they publish divisive material, and regardless of the economic issues and problems that have prevailed over the people today due to the condition of corona virus disease, they publish offensive and separatist material.

Cyberspace provides a good opportunity for them to have more control over the thoughts of the audience. That cause hatred and discrimination among societies resulted by such.

The world is not beautiful without minorities and tribes, and this butterfly needs empathy and solidarity. Loss of even one color will cause a butterfly defect and it will reduce the beauty of the world.

Let us not let the hostility, the arrogant and colonial spirit of the warlords make us mourn this beautiful butterfly.
